Elements of a More Efficient Home Office

Laptops and Accessories

Equip employees to work anywhere with laptops, docking stations, USB-C cables, AC adaptors, wireless keyboards/mice, Bluetooth speakers and surge protectors.

Monitors

Desktop monitors allow at-home workers to be more efficient and productive when working in complex spreadsheets and multiple files.

IT Services

Many home networks are unsecured. Our IT professionals can help protect company data with services such as cybersecurity and VPN.

Printers

For those relying on printed documents, desktop printers offer features including scanning and wireless networking capability with a compact footprint.

Collaboration Software

Keep your staff productive and connected with face-to-face interaction using tools like video conferencing and cloud-based chat systems.

Routers and Networking

Mimic the unwavering connectivity of your office by equipping your remote staff with routers, modems, Wi-Fi extenders and more.

Cameras and Headsets

Streamline audio/visual communications by providing headsets, microphones and web cameras to facilitate virtual collaboration.
